Re: Rushing Company commitment to the Clinton Climate Initiative Energy Performance Contracting Best Practices

Dear David,

This letter is to confirm Rushing's understanding of and commitment to support the Clinton Climate Initiative (CCI) Energy Efficiency Building Retrofit Program (EEBRP.) This letter also indicates Rushing's acceptance of the EEBRP Energy Performance Contracting Best Practices, a copy of which is appended to this letter.

DECIDEDLY DIFFERENT

Located in Seattle, our designs are touching projects all over the world! Integrated. Innovative. Client-centered. Rushing's approach is a refreshing change from traditional engineering and sustainability consulting firms. We're not afraid to look for an unexpected angle or unique solution and work closely with our clients to find practical, field-tested, and construction-ready solutions.

SERVICES

Blending engineering and sustainability expertise, our services include:

- Mechanical engineering
- Sustainability consulting
- Building modeling
- Commissioning
- Electrical engineering

Rushing further agrees to use the Clinton Foundation's name or logo or any name or logo owned or used by the Clinton Foundation, or President Clinton's name, image, voice or likeness (collectively, the "Clinton Images") only with the express written consent of the Clinton Foundation and agree that the Clinton Foundation has the absolute right to review and approve (in writing) any and all proposed uses (in their entirety) that include Clinton Images. It is Rushing's understanding that the Clinton Foundation's written response will normally be rendered within seven business days of receipt by the Clinton Foundation of Rushing's request to use Clinton Images, and, if a response is not received within seven business days, the request should be deemed rejected by the Clinton Foundation.

Rushing looks forward to working with CCI to develop best practices-based energy efficiency projects.

Sincerely,
Rae Anne Rushing, P.E. LEED AP
